

Bulletin and Newsletter Briefs

December 2009

prepared by CatholicCaregivers.com, a program of the Friends of St. John the Caregiver (www.FSJC.org)

Caregiving is pro-life!

“The elderly are not only to be considered the object of our concern, closeness and service. They themselves have a valuable contribution to make to the Gospel of life. Thanks to the rich treasury of experiences they have acquired through the years, the elderly can and must be sources of wisdom and witnesses of hope and love.”

--Pope John Paul II,
Evangelium Vitae

("The Gospel of Life"), No. 94

Caregiving is pro-life!

“The elderly are not only to be considered the object of our concern, closeness and service. They themselves have a valuable contribution to make to the Gospel of life. Thanks to the rich treasury of experiences they have acquired through the years, the elderly can and must be sources of wisdom and witnesses of hope and love.”

--Pope John Paul II, Evangelium Vitae ("The Gospel of Life"), No. 94

Caregiving is pro-life!

“The sick person who feels surrounded by a loving human and Christian presence does not give way to depression and anguish as would be the case if one were left to suffer and die alone and wanting to be done with life.”

--Pontifical Council for Pastoral Assistance's "Charter for Health Care Workers" (No. 149)

Caregiving is pro-life!

“The sick person who feels surrounded by a loving human and Christian presence does not give way to depression and anguish as would be the case if one were left to suffer and die alone and wanting to be done with life.”

--Pontifical Council for Pastoral Assistance's
"Charter for Health Care Workers" (No. 149)